

Garrett's background in finance and political science will allow him to consider all interests involved when seeking solutions to complex legal challenges.

He is very interested in early-stage, high-growth businesses in emerging industries, as these spaces call for creative legal solutions.

Aside from your studies, what else do you like to spend time doing?

I listen to a ton of podcasts – they are practically the soundtrack of my life. I recently got the chance to write and produce my first podcast episode with the McGill Law Journal about Canadian Crypto Regulation following the FTX collapse.

If you could have your own talk show, who would you invite as your first guest?

Sir Paul McCartney of the Beatles, my favourite band. He's a genius. Also, is there anyone who has lived a more fascinating life?

What are the essential qualities of a good lawyer? How do you display those qualities?

A strong attention to detail, adaptability and active listening. I really enjoy working in a dynamic team environment and believe these skills are essential to making a strong contribution.
