Davies Joins Global Legal Blockchain Consortium

Davies has joined the Global Legal Blockchain Consortium (GLBC), a non-profit industry group dedicated to the adoption and standardization of blockchain technology in the business of law.

Davies looks forward to contributing its expertise to help GLBC build a lasting and universal framework for the application of blockchain technology to the legal industry.

Over 50 major corporations, law firms, software specialists and universities have joined together to develop these standards and to support the larger goal of improving the security, privacy, productivity and interoperability of blockchain technology.
