"A trusted adviser with significant expertise, Aaron delivers excellent advice on complex transactions."

Chambers Canada

Aaron's practice focuses on mergers & acquisitions, shareholder activism and corporate governance. Canadian and international businesses, boards and investors spanning a wide range of sectors – including mining, technology, infrastructure and private equity – count on Aaron for his business-minded and results-oriented approach to their complex legal issues.

A seasoned and strategic practitioner, Aaron has advised on many high-profile domestic and cross-border transactions, including contested matters such as proxy contests, unsolicited takeover bids and topping bids.

Well versed in corporate governance, Aaron is also regularly called upon to advise boards and board special committees on transactional matters and complex governance issues. Aaron also serves as an adjunct professor at Osgoode Hall Law School where he teaches a course focussed on public company M&A and shareholder activism.
