Clients trust Ray for their “complex and structurally difficult private wealth issues”, with one client commenting they value “the knowledge she possesses as she guides us through the process.”

Chambers High Net Worth

Ray works with clients on a wide range of personal planning matters, focusing on wealth management and preservation. She assists clients in the reorganization of their assets with regard to strategic tax and succession planning; advises on all aspects of the establishment and administration of trusts, both domestic and international; designs wills and powers of attorney to deal efficiently with assets upon death or incapacity; and consults on domestic and marriage contracts. Ray has significant experience in cross-border planning. She also advises on charitable giving, including the creation and registration of new charities and their ongoing compliance.

Ray’s clients, including high-net-worth individuals, family businesses, trust companies and charitable entities, value her superior organizational skills and her ability to present complex information simply.
