More About Me

What are the essential qualities of a good lawyer and how do you display them?

I believe the essential qualities of a good lawyer are precision, adaptability and resilience. A good lawyer must not only think critically and write clearly, they must also understand the human behind every case or client interaction. I display these qualities through both my academic and professional experiences. My background in political science has strengthened my analytical skills and attention to detail, while my experience as an account manager has enabled me to develop strong client relationships and deliver practical solutions. Balancing this full-time role with law school has required discipline, adaptability and resilience.

Why did you choose to work with Davies?

I chose to work with Davies because of the firm's unparalleled culture of excellence and its reputation for developing the most skilled and business-minded lawyers in Canada. My Nonno always told me that to be the best, you have to surround yourself with the best. That philosophy has guided many of my decisions, including why I chose to work with Davies.
